Forward looking, Every inch calm, articulate, confident and versatile - aspiring professional with logical reasoning skills as well as good interpersonal and human resource skills to manage men, material and money. I have a burning desire to gain as much exposure and knowledge I could in any field with particular reference to Meteorology and Climate Science which is my discipline. With the course being a multidimensional discipline that is applicable in virtually every field, I am eager to develop and fit –in any career where diligence is their trade in trade. I promised to be focused and committed to ensure maximum performance in order to achieve desired organizational goals. I also promise to adapt easily to new circumstances as well as render effective assistance to ensure the achievement of a common goal.
